Free event - Sustainability Fair at Breakwater Country Park, Holyhead
Saturday 15th May

Groundwork in North Wales, working in partnership with the Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty Officer from Anglesey is holding a Sustainability Fair on Saturday 15th May at Breakwater Country Park, Holyhead, Anglesey, between 11:00am – 3:00pm.

At the fair, Dr Roy Alexander from Chester University will be talking about his village Ashton Heyes, and their efforts to make the village Carbon Neutral. Huda Zahid from Bangor, Gwynedd one of the UK's Young Climate Change Champions will also be giving a presentation.

The day will be an ideal opportunity for people to find out how to live more sustainably, with advice and information from a number of organisations such as Friends of the Earth, Greenpeace, BTCV, Groundwork, Energy Saving Trust and Keep Wales Tidy. There will be an opportunity for Fair Trade shopping and for people to learn more about re-cycling.

Breakwater Country Park has plenty of parking, good customer facilities and the Wildlife Trust café. The event is completely free, everyone is welcome and it will be an interesting and informative day for all the whole family.

Note to Editor

Groundwork in North Wales is part of a federation of over 40 Groundwork Trusts in Wales, Northern Ireland and England. Each Trust is both a charity and a company limited by guarantee.

Groundwork's mission is to enable all citizens, whatever their backgrounds and circumstances, to improve the quality of their own lives, through engaging them in physical environmental activities and community dialogue. The essence of the Groundwork approach is local action, working in communities, with public, private and voluntary sector partners, to achieve practical improvements.

Groundwork in North Wales receives funding from Local Authorities, the Welsh Assembly Government and other public and private partners.
