Building community resilience to the impacts of climate change

Climate change is already affecting Wales and the impacts of climate change are projected to become more significant over time. We need to start preparing for the challenges and opportunities that climate change brings.

What the events will offer

- Interactive sessions exploring the likely impacts of climate change
- Presentations and learning from those who have already taken action
- Workshops on preparing for climate change impacts in four areas: Health and social care, Housing, Vulnerable groups and Community groups

What participants will gain

- Increased understanding of how climate change is likely to affect their organisation and the communities they work with
- Support and ideas for potential actions, including a template to help build the impacts of climate change into their business planning

Who should attend

- All third sector organisations, including non-environmental organisations.

The events are particularly relevant to organisations that offer services to marginalised or disadvantaged groups that are most vulnerable to climate change i.e. older people, disabled people, children and young people, refugee groups and people living in poverty.
